HOW THEY FLOUNDER.

Various Reasons Advanced by Democrats Why They Were Defeated

Next to the funniest thing in the world—the funniest being a modern Democratic National Campaign—is the effort of the press to tell an uninquiring public “how it happened.” They advocate “Democratic principles” and make post election explanation with equal felicity and harmony. One paper says it was because the Democratic nominee placed too much stress on the foreign policy of the dominant party, and another says it was due to the lack of emphasis on the foreign policy. Another says too much stress was placed on the Tariff question and another says the Tariff should have been made the issue.

We were told before the election that there never was such an exhibition of manly courage and political wisdom as that post nomination gold telegram of Mr. Parker's. All the wisdom of Solomon, all the generalship of Alexander the Great, all the eloquence of Demosthenes, all the virtue of the regenerated Paul centered in that telegram. Now they tell us the gold telegram defeated Parker! It what we have been trying to say needs illustration or confirmation let the reader examine these two editorials in the Hartford Herald. Hear the Herald:

“We wish to mildly call the attention to the fact that every time the Democratic party has made a surrender of its principles it has lost at the polls. This has occurred in the Greeley, Hancock and Parker campaigns.”

The other editorial is as follows: “Nobody ever retired from a Presidential race with greater respect and honor than does Judge Parker. He fought a good fight, he kept the faith, and to him belongs that reverence which is accord to the great and good in history.”

In these two brief paragraphs we have great and good Parker leading the Democratic hosts, (who have so wantonly forsaken the erstwhile principles of Democracy) and fighting the good fight and keeping the faith. It would be very difficult for the editor of the Herald to write two more contradictory paragraphs.

The Herald is a Democrat to the trade. What makes one party the Republican party and the other party the Democratic party if it is not because of certain well defined political principles for which each party is supposed to stand? Why did not the Herald say before the election the Democrats had forsaken their principles? Had the Herald been less the politician and more the patriotic citizen it would have done so. Shame on such political chicanery. The editor of the Herald poses as a christian gentleman, which we have always chosen to consider him, and yet, during the recent National campaign he abused and misrepresented the good President of the United States and used all the intrigues of a political truckler to induce the people to vote for a party which he now says had no principles, and which he must have known at the time to have none.

We think the Herald is somewhat in error about the party's abandoning its principles, however. The party has had but few principles which it seems to care to stand by in recent years, and they may be indicated as follows: 1st. Oppose everything good or bad the party in power proposes. 2nd. Maintain at all hazards the principle of “yellow dog,” or “Jim McKenzle Democracy.”

3rd. Hate the negro with all your soul, mind and strength and teach your neighbor to do likewise.

“AN OBSERVER.”

The fiction of business has not yet fully ripened. But on the way up is “Barlow and the Octopus,” by Arthur H. Vandenberg. It appears in Lippincott's Magazine's Christmas number and will arrest men of affairs by its cleverness.

KILLED BY ACCIDENT.

Samuel Patton's Head Almost Blown Off By Accidental Discharge of Gun.

Monday afternoon while out squirrel hunting Samuel Patton, a prosperous farmer of the West Hartford neighborhood, was accidentally killed by Owen Taylor, the seventeen-year-old son of Henry Taylor. The two had been out hunting all the morning and had about completed their day's sport. They had just cited a squirrel and both had been trying to get a shot at it which Patton finally succeeded in doing. He killed the squirrel and went to pick it up. Young Taylor followed closely behind Patton and when Patton reached down to get the game both barrels of Taylor's gun were discharged the contents taking effect just above Patton's ear tearing the whole side and top of his head.

Young Taylor fled from the spot and informed the nearby residents what had occurred. For a time the young man was frantic and almost crazed with grief.

The body of Patton was removed to his home where friends prepared it for interment which took place Tuesday at Liberty cemetery.

FIRE AT LIVERMORE.

Thought to Have Been the Work of a Firebug---No Insurance on Building or Stock.

The large sawmill of Col. R. E. Hackett at Livermore burned to the ground last Friday morning at 1:30. The fire is supposed to have been of incendiary origin. The fire was first discovered by the watchman at the Geneva mill which is east of Hackett mill and the alarm given but the fire was under such headway that it was impossible to save the mill so the people went to work to keep the other buildings from burning and confined the fire to the mill.

The loss consist of the mill, dry house and storage room. In the dry house $2,000 worth of rims and spokes burned, making total loss of $7,000 or $8,000, with no insurance.

Col. Hackett is one of the oldest mill men, having been engaged in business at Livermore for over forty five years. He has been rather unfortunate in the way of fires, this being the fourth mill to burn, and one explosion of the boiler, making five heavy losses for him.

Mr. Hackett it is said is confident that this was the act of an incendiary as they examined the mill closely for fire that night before going to their home and the fire originated in a part of the mill where there was no chance for fire. There have been some belts cut and other damage done around the mill lately, which confirms Mr. Hackett in the belief of its having been set on fire. They had no night watchman, but a colored man who is their engineer, slept in his office and had to be awoken to get him out of the building. Mr. Hackett and his son, Edgar, say they will rebuild the mill at once.

Financially Embarrassed.

“It is reported,” says an exchange, “that John D. Rockefeller's income during the last year has dropped to $37,000,000.”

This is terrible. If it is true that Uncle Jack cleared only $35,000,000 last year, there is nothing for him to do but cut down expenses.

We are willing, however, to do our share, and get up a popular subscription for his relief, and we would suggest that little Jock Rockefeller pass around the plate to his Bible class for the benefit of his financially embarrassed father.

COL. BRECKENRIDGE DEAD.

Many Friends Pay Last Tribute to The Distinguished Dead.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 21.—All that was mortal of Col William Campbell Preston Breckenridge was lowered to earth this afternoon surrounded by his comrades who fought with him in the struggles of the North and the South; by the friends who have known and loved him and who have been associated with him during many years. The busy life of the city was hushed while the oldest citizen cannot remember when such homage was paid to live or dead as marked the burial of Lexington's most distinguished citizen. Those who loved him most came laden with their tributes. Those who knew him best in earlier days have passed the great beyond, nearly all, but those remaining to day gently carried the remains of their old commander to the earth he lived so well.

The funeral procession formed at the home at 1:30 o'clock and proceeded to the church. The procession was led by muffled drum corps draped in black. Then came the Knights Templar in full regalia, each with a red flower and a fern pinned on the breast. Following the Templars came the Masons, they, too, being in full regalia with a green fern pinned on the breast of each. Behind them came the members of the Fayette county Bar Association, and following these were the city officials and Confederate Veterans.

KILLED BY A TRAIN.

Herbert Miller Lost His Life While on His Way to Linton, Ind.

Herbert Miller, son of Rev. Joshua Miller, of Hopewell neighborhood, was run down and killed by a train near Evansville last Friday. Young Miller and Harry Woodburn, of Rockport, were on their way to Linton, Ind., and were riding on a freight train between two box-cars. The coupling where they were standing broke. This let the cars come apart, Miller dropping to the track below. The cars released by the broken coupling caught him cutting and mangling his body almost beyond recognition, both legs, both arms and his head were severed from his body. His remains were brought home and interred Saturday.

ROOSEVELT'S CABINET

Hay, Taft, Metcalf, Wilson, Cortelyou, Shaw and Morton Will Remain in Office.

Washington, Nov. 21.—It is announced at the White House that Attorney General Moody has decided to remain in Roosevelt's new cabinet. The decision of Moody renders it reasonably certain that the heads of the six great executive department of the government have been determined on by the President for his next administration.

Hay will continue at the head of the State Department, Taft at the War Department, Metcalf at the Department of Commerce and Labor, Wilson in the Agricultural Department, Cortelyou as Postmaster General, after the fourth of next March. It is expected Shaw will continue as Secretary of the Treasury. Morton as Secretary of the Navy. A change is expected in the Department of the Interior.

First-hand reports on the conditions in the Philippines are rare because so few observers know how to write vividly. In Lippincott's Magazine for December there is a significant and picturesque paper by a United States Army Lieutenant which tells in some powerful sentences the whole story of “The Regular and the Savage”—and a remarkable story it is.

HAPPY AND HEALTHY.

A Beautiful Canadian Girl Saved From Catarrh of the Lungs by Pe-ru-na.

MISS FLORENCE KENAH.

Miss Florence E. Kenah, 434 Maria street, Ottawa, Ont., writes:

“A few months ago I caught a severe cold, which settled on my lungs and remained there so persistently that I became alarmed. I took medicine without benefit, until my digestive organs became upset, and my head and back began to ache severely and frequently.

“I was advised to try Peruna, and although I had little faith I felt so sick that I was ready to try anything. It brought me blessed relief at once, and I felt that I had the right medicine at last. Within three weeks I was completely restored and have enjoyed perfect health since.

“I now have the greatest faith in Peruna.”

F. E. KENAH.

WOMEN should beware of contracting catarrh. The cold wind and rain, slush and mud of winter are especially conducive to catarrhal derangements. Few women escape.

Upon the first symptoms of catching cold Peruna should be taken. It fortifies the system against colds and catarrh.

The following letter gives one young woman's experience with Peruna:

Miss Rose Gerbing is a popular society woman of Crown Point, Ind., and she writes the following:

“Recently I took a long drive in the country, and being too thinly clad I caught a bad cold which settled on my lungs, and which I could not seem to shake off. I had heard a great deal of Peruna for colds and catarrh and I bought a bottle to try. I am pleased that I did, for it brought speedy relief. It only took about two bottles, and I considered this money well spent.

“You have a firm friend in me, and I not only advise its use to my friends, but have purchased several bottles to give to those without the means to buy, and have noticed without exception that it has brought about a speedy cure wherever it has been used.”—Miss Rose Gerbing.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

CANALS

Now Thickly Dot the World
Here and There.

What all the Different Nations are Doing in This Line

When men began to girdle the earth with railroads they began also to look down upon the old methods of transportation which had served their fathers and forefathers. Among the things despised were canals. In many cases oldtime canals that had carried merchandise for generations were drained dry and their beds utilized for the laying of railroad tracks.

But the canal is coming to its own again. Men are discovering more and more that it has its place in the economy of commerce—a place which railways cannot entirely fill.

The digging of great canals ranks among the foremost works and projects of many leading nations at the present time. The world is getting to be cut up with canals all over its land surface, and before the end of the present century the canal mileage on the globe is likely to be nearly doubled.

America is undertaking the two biggest canal schemes at present projected, the Panama canal and the thousand-ton barge canal.

Few countries have given more attention to canals and canal schemes than the United States did in the days before the railways. Of the many canals constructed in that era the most important was the Erie canal through the State of New York, connecting the Hudson river with Lake Erie.

In the words of a distinguished expert: "This canal, although originally built of small size, played a very important part in the settlement of the great West, or what was then the great West by furnishing a route in connection with the Great Lakes by which the products of the new Western country could reach the markets along the seaboard, and by which in turn it could get its supplies of clothing, tools, groceries, etc., at an economical rate of transportation. It is certain that the settlement and development of the New York and New England hinterland were enormously expedited by the Erie canal."

This canal has managed to withstand the opposition of the railways, although the country around it is absolutely gridironed with them. Undoubtedly it has had much to do with the development of New York City and New York State. Along its banks there has built up what has been called "the most important chain of cities in the country"—Albany, Troy, Cohoes, Schenectady, Little Falls, Utica, Rome, Syracuse, Rochester, Lockport and Buffalo.

But the great canal and its subsidiary branches, the Oswego and Champlain canals are now palpably inadequate for the work they are called upon to do. The Erie canal can only accommodate boats carrying 240 tons of freight. Agitation for the enlargement of the canal has been going on for many years, and at last New York State has decided to spend $100,000,000 to enlarge the Erie canal to a capacity that will enable it to be used by thousand-ton barges. A similar enlargement of the Oswego and Champlain branches is to be made.

This great work, which is now being commenced, has attracted comparatively little notice outside of New York State, but it is declared by leading authorities to be by far the greatest public work ever undertaken by any State of the Union.

"This projected work is in the very front rank of canal propositions," said Col. Thomas W. Symonds, who was the first to suggest the thousand-ton canal in a report to the Federal Government away back in 1867. "It is overshadowed in the public mind by the Panama canal on account of the international character and the interesting complications that have attended the inauguration of that work by the United States."

"In commercial importance the Erie is in many ways the equal of the Panama canal. On the Panama it is hoped to some time reach a tonnage of 10,000,000 on the Erie all works structures, water supply, etc. are predicted on a tonnage of 10,000,000, and provisions are made for accommodating, at slight additional expenses, a tonnage greatly in excess of this."

"On the Upper Great Lakes there is water-borne commerce of very nearly 90,000,000 tons per year. The Erie Canal will furnish the cheapest route for connecting this vast lake commerce with the seaboard, and its wide-reaching influence can hardly be conceived or appreciated by those who have given years of study to the problem.

"In magnitude the work that New York has undertaken exceeds the work at Panama. More earth and rock must be excavated, more masonry used, and more dams built. The cost per unit is not nearly so high as at Panama, because the work will be done in the temperate zone, where labor, tools and materials are abundant and reasonably cheap.

"In the complexity of the engineering questions involved, the Erie is hardly second to the Panama Canal; for, while the canalization of the Mohawk river is a very different problem for the control and utilization of the Chagres river they are both engineering projects of the very first magnitude.

"The building of the Panama Canal under conditions akin to the proposed enlargement of the Erie Barge Canal would be a simpler, cheaper, and easier work than that which New York has undertaken.

"It is believed that these new and enlarged canals will be of benefit to New York in enabling her to remain and increase her commercial supremacy largely through their controlling influence on freight rates and the prevention of differential discrimination against the port of New York, which is now and has for years been the rule.

"They will also benefit the entire region of the Great Lakes, and this benefit will extend far into the interior of the great Northwest and influence transportation rates through the country.

"Upon the Great Lakes many millions of freight are transported every year at exceedingly low rates—far lower than are possible by any other than water transportation. The canals that New York has undertaken to build will practically extend this cheap system of water transportation to the seaport of New York and other ports in the vicinity, and bind the East and West closer together."

England is a country that depends largely upon canal navigation, although it has a network of railways which is closer, probably, than any other in the world. There are 3,997 miles of canals in Great Britain the vast proportion being in England. The canals carrying considerably over 40,000,000 tons a year.

The most important of them is the Manchester Ship Canal which was hailed as a great engineering feat when it was opened in 1895. Its magnitude as a business enterprise may be appreciated from the fact the capital of the company which owns it is $77,560,000 and that its revenue is a quarter of the entire revenue of all the canals in Great Britain although its length is only twenty-five and a half miles.

The most important canal work undertaken in Germany in recent years was the constitution of the Kaiser Wilhelm canal across the Schleswig Holstein neck from Kiel to the Elbe. This canal was opened in June, 1895. It facilitates the transference of war ships from the principal naval establishment on the Baltic Kiel, to the chief German North Sea base, Wilhelmshaven.

The canal is sixty seven miles long and over 200 feet broad. It cost about $50,000,000, but it has been a splendid success. Over 30,000 ships pass through it every year. Germany has about 3,000 miles of other canals.

The whole of Europe is closely cut up with canals, nearly all the navigable rivers being thus connected. Many years ago, before this system of canalization was as complete as it is to-day, a Scotchman named MacGregor wrote a book which had a great vogue in England entitled "A Thousand Miles in a Rob Roy Canoe."

He had the pluck to cross the English channel in his frail craft, and he entered one of the canals of Holland. During the course of one summer he traveled over a thousand miles on the canals and rivers of Europe, but principally on the canals. He went through Holland, Belgium, France, Germany, Austria, Hungary, and parts of Russia, and he never once had to leave his waterways and take to the train in order to reach the points he desired. Now a days the system of canals is much improved, and practically every town of importance on the continent is linked up with the vast network of waterways.

Yet the nations of Europe are not satisfied. Most of them have great schemes of canal improvement either in contemplation or actually in hand.

France is taking the idea. In 1902 the French Parliament approved a great general scheme prepared by M. Baudin, the Minister of Public Works for the improvement of existing waterways, and the construction of new canals. The sum involved is about $100,000,000, and the work is being carried out as quickly as other demands on the exchequer permits. Surveys have been made for all the projects, and some of them have actually been started.

There are five separate schemes for the improvement of existing canals and it is proposed to construct no fewer than ten large new canals connecting the principle commercial centers of France, such as Nantes, Marseilles and Orleans.

England is doing nothing big at present in the line of canals, but there is a scheme to connect the docks at Southampton with London by a large canal. It is estimated that this can be done for $15,000,000. The great idea of the originators is that motor barges could come from France and the Channel Islands through this canal right up to London, bringing vast quantities of market produce and other merchandise.

There is another scheme to connect the Medway and the Thames by a canal estimated to cost one and a half million of dollars.

Belgium is adding to its fine system of canals by the building of the Burges ship canal, which will connect the great city of Burges with the port of Hays. The total cost is estimated at nearly 15,000,000 francs, of which sum 25,000,000 francs come from the State.

Prussia has a great canalizing scheme from the Rhine to the Elbe but as yet it is in embryo. The only part of it completed is the Dortmund Ems canal, 168 miles long.

Russia has some great canal schemes, but as yet they are merely schemes, and the terrible cost of the war with Japan is likely to postpone their execution for many years to come.

The greatest of these schemes is for a canal right through European Russia, to connect the Black sea with the Baltic and to be capable of accommodating the largest modern battleship.

Of course, the canal would not have to be dug for the whole of this tremendous distance, as navigable rivers and other existing waterways would be linked up. The Russian Ministry of the Interior announced some time ago that "the construction of the waterway for large vessels of the navy is considered impracticable at present." But while the cost of the war has first to be met, it may be expected that Russia will undertake this work as soon as possible. Her naval strength would be immensely increased by a canal that would enable her to transfer her Black sea fleet to the Baltic, and vice versa. The war has shown most plainly the undesirability of having naval forces dispersed.

Russia also has a scheme to connect Rostoff on the Danube with the Sea of Azoff by a deep-water canal capable of accommodating ocean steamships. It has been approved by Prince Khilkoff, Russian Minister of Ways and Communications, but it will probably be also held up by the war.

These are only a few of the canal projects in various parts of the world to-day, but they suffice to show that the railway has not put the canal out of business, and is not very likely to do so.

The Dominion of Canada is fortunate in the matter of canals. It has a system of canal river and lake navigation over 2,700 miles in length, and vessels from the lake ports reach the Atlantic without breaking bulk. Up to 1901, $1,454,544 had been spent in Canada on canals for construction alone. Millions more have been spent since then, and great schemes for extending the system are projected. About thirty thousand vessels, carrying over five million tons of freight annually pass through the Canadian canals.

This is an expensive showing, but the United States paid well over $200,000,000 for its thirty principal canals. Twenty-five of those waterways cost over a million dollars each, and four over ten millions apiece. The most expensive was the Erie canal, which cost over $52,000,000.

The Panama Canal and the New York State barge canal will both cost more money than the Suez canal which was constructed for $100,000,000. They are at present far greater engineering difficulties.

Another great canal scheme that is likely to be realized in the course of the next two or three years is the cutting of a deep-water channel between St. Louis and Chicago; but at present it has not advanced beyond the stage of plans and surveys.

Hard on the Host.

James Brown Potter was talking about absentmindedness.

"Usually," he said, "the errors of the absentminded are merely ludicrous. They don't cause embarrassment or pain. The last time I was thought I witnessed a piece of absentmindedness that was embarrassing and painful to the last degree.

"I was dining in Oxford, and the guest of honor was a bishop. He was old and mild and thoughtful, and I was not surprised to hear from my neighbor that his head was continually wandering.

"It seems that this bishop had once lived in the house of our host. That fact, probably was what caused him to forget that he was dining out. As the dinner, a rather poor one, drew to a close, he turned to his wife and said:

"My dear, I'm afraid we must pronounce this cook another failure."

"I solemnly promise," replied the sick man.

"Very well. Now, first of all, give me your check in full for my last bill."

WANTED TO KNOW

Before Marriage Did Chicago Girl.

Who Had Queer Ideas About Married Life--Conducts an Experiment.

Sarah Hart, of Chicago, is one of those careful, particular women who wants to know exactly where they will land before they leap. Incidentally she is the defendant in a suit brought by John Gregson, who wants to get back the jewelry he gave her while they were engaged.

Miss Hart is rather a handsome woman and she has a strong jaw.

"The complainant says that you have some jewelry bestowed by Mr. Gregson," began the opposing attorney.

"That's true," she said, and a solitaire glistened on the third finger of her left hand.

"The complainant says that you decline to surrender said property," continued the attorney.

"That's all right," said Miss Hart, as she examined a handsome clasp at her throat. John's eyes followed the movement. It was one of his presents.

"You might tell the court about it," suggested the attorney.

"Well, it was like this," began Miss Hart. "You see, John was a suitor. I had rather queer ideas about marriage. You know, some women wait until after marriage before they learn much about their husbands. I don't believe in that plan. I wanted to know something about John before I became his wife."

"Quite right," interrupted the justice. "quite right."

Your honor, a husband should be patient. No man can be a good husband who does not possess patience. Well, one evening I put John to test. I knew he was coming. So I invited a few other male friends around. Of course I did not tell John. Neither did I tell the other men that anybody else would be present. John did not seem to like it. I whispered that all would be well if he would have patience—that he could remain longer than the rest, but, your honor, he flew into a passion and left first. I knew right then that John did not have any patience."

"Must have been a disappointment," commented the justice.

"It was, indeed. When I realized that John did not possess patience I was convinced that I was not going to be ideally happy. Still, I thought a great deal of John and I decided to give him another chance. If there is one thing that is certain to make a home happy it is a husband who is not 'fussy.' I wanted to know about John before I married him. Two or three times I invited him to dinner and did the best I could."

"I had said the dinners were excellent and he insisted on having the ceremony performed at once, but I wanted to be certain. So one day I invited him to dinner and spoiled everything. The dinner was terrible. I watched him. He did not say much about the soup. I later learned that he was expecting better things. The meat was not exactly to his liking, but he still had hopes of the salad."

"When that came and he had tasted it his expression was dark. But he still thought that the desert might be the redeeming feature. It was not and John was angry although. He was not pleasant that afternoon. He did not say much, but the little that he did say would not have caused any girl to leave a comfortable home to go with him. I was disappointed. John had not come up to expectations. But I thought a lot of him and gave him just one more trial."

"Very kind of you, indeed," and there was sarcasm in the tone of the lawyer for the opposition.

"Yes, I thought that if he would prove constant I would forgive all else, but my eyes had been opened. I was not expecting any heavenly existence with John. But I did believe that he would be constant. So I went about with another fellow, and what do you suppose that John did? He pointed for a couple of weeks and then sued for the return of the engagement ring and some other jewelry that he had given me."

"Well, I move that she turn over the jewelry," began the attorney for the opposition.

"Well, I don't," retorted Miss Hart. "If John had come up to ex-

GIRL'S SECRET.

"Aunt Cassie came to visit us and she saw I was nervous, had the fidgets all the time, and she asked me many questions, and finally said, 'Why, you dear, sweet girl, it's not your temper that's bad, it's your constitution that's out of kilter. You sit right down now and write a letter to Dr. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y., tell him all your symptoms—and so I did. It wasn't long before I had a long reply, carefully going over my case and telling me just what to do. I date my present happiness and little Cupid's return to the very day I sat down to write that letter to Dr. Pierce. For his advice was so good and his 'Favorite Prescription' worked such a complete change in me that now my former cheerfulness and good health—not to say anything of good looks—are restored to me. I have summoned Tom back to my side and we are to be married in June.'"

The proprietors and makers of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure. It is natural that a woman who has been cured of womanly disease by "Favorite Prescription" should believe that it will cure others. It is natural too that she should recommend to other women the medicine which has cured her. It is such commendation which has made the name of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a household word for the past thirty-eight years.

Expectations all would have been well, but it isn't my fault that he fell short."

Justice Richardson said that he would have to consider the case for a few days.

Chronic Diarrhoea Cured.

Mr. Walter Richardson, of Troutville, Va., had an attack of diarrhoea that came near ending his life. His physician had failed to relieve him and the disease had become chronic when he began using Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It soon cured him and he now recommends that preparation whenever an opportunity offers. For sale by all druggists.

Greatest of Imitators.

Japan is deeply in debt to the world at large. She has borrowed everything she possesses except her shrewdness, and beautiful native costume. She borrowed her religion from China, giving up nothing for it, but merely adding it to that which she already possessed. Her language, "Japanese as she is spoke to-day," is a conglomeration of all languages on a foundation of pure Japanese written with Chinese characters, which she also borrowed from her Western neighbor along with Buddhism. The ancient Japanese perfected the art of successful borrowing, and modern Japan has developed it into a science which she applies upon every possible occasion.

Whatever Japan borrows she makes Japanese; she molds it into conformity with Japanese characteristics and in many cases changes its original form altogether. Since Commodore Perry sailed into the bay of Yeddo in 1853 she has borrowed on an unlimited scale, and systematically, from every corner of the globe. She doesn't hesitate to borrow trademarks which are not registered in Japan. She goes to England or America, Germany or France, and buys anything she happens to think might meet some of her own necessities, add to her resources, her attractiveness or her pleasure, and bringing it across seas, copies it, name and all, and sell it as a Japanese product. Everything that is not protected against her, and which appeals in the slightest degree to her amazing self-interest, Japan will appropriate without an instant's hesitation, smiling all the time with that shrewd suavity which makes a healthy-minded American feel like kicking something—if I may so express a feeling familiar to all my dear countrymen who have lived in Japan.

There are few useful commodities manufactured in America that may not be found in Japan masquerading under a very thinly Japped American trade mark, or sometimes not masquerading at all. And along with everything else they have appropriated came the American spirit of advertising, which is the funniest thing in Japan.

Between Kobe and Kioto the country lying along the seashore was a splendid imitation of the Jersey flats, being then unplanted rice swamps, and all along on both sides of the railroad were glaring enormous bill boards, sign boards, standing up on the regulation stilts so familiar to travelers through New Jersey, or anywhere else in America, for that matter.

FROM SOUTH AFRICA.

New Way of Using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mr. Arthur Chapman writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I pen you the following: A neighbor of mine had a child just over two months old. It had a very bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the dummy teat the baby was sucking it would no doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

Mistake in Stamps.

By a simple error in the printing of a set of stamps the value is enormously increased to collectors. A short time ago a Dutch stamp was printed yellow instead of blue. A week later these stamps were sold at a great premium. A New Zealand stamp some years ago was printed upside down, and it is now worth a large sum. Among English stamps the old red penny, with the plate No. 255, is valued by collectors, and the small pink half penny, with plate No. 9, is not worth less than $20. It is said that the plate of the latter was broken soon after it came into use and was never replaced, hence the value of the few stamps printed from it. It is always a question with amateurs whether to buy their stamps used or unused. But it is safe on a great occasion, such as the Jubilee or Exposition year, to buy them with the post-mark.

Loss of Flesh

When you can't eat breakfast, take Scott's Emulsion. When you can't eat bread and butter, take Scott's Emulsion. When you have been living on a milk diet and want something a little more nourishing, take Scott's Emulsion.

To get fat you must eat fat. Scott's Emulsion is a great fattener, a great strength giver.

Those who have lost flesh want to increase all body tissues, not only fat. Scott's Emulsion increases them all, bone, flesh, blood and nerve.

For invalids, for convalescents, for consumptives, for weak children, for all who need flesh, Scott's Emulsion is a rich and comfortable food, and a natural tonic.

Scott's Emulsion for bone, flesh, blood and nerve.

uals is the quantity of food one should eat. Doctors all agree that the majority of people eat too much. Babies from the day of their birth are forced to eat too much, and they grow up with this artificial appetite. The most reasonable estimate yet made is probably that which fixes one-twentieth of the average weight of the body as the average daily quantity required. If you weigh 140 pounds you should consume seven pounds of food. This includes drink as well as solid food. But it is ridiculous to set down a hard and fast rule. Such a quantity might kill some, and there is a case on record of a man wasting away on a diet of seven or eight pounds of food a day. He cut down his diet to three quarters of a pound of liquid and the same of solid food and as a result he grew stout and lived to a ripe old age.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is Pleasant to Take.

The finest quality of granulated loaf sugar is used in the manufacture of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and the roots used in its preparation give it a flavor similar to maple syrup, making it quite pleasant to take. Mr. W. L. Roderick, of Poolesville, Md., in speaking of this remedy, says: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with my children for several years and can truthfully say it is the best preparation of the kind I know of. The children like to take it and it has no injurious after effect. For sale by all druggists."

His Third Venture.

"Am dis de place wha yo' gits licenses?" asked a dark-skinned citizen as he approached the window in City Treasurer Dorian's office recently, says the Paducah Sun.

"Not, not exactly," explained Treasurer Dorian, "but you do the most important part of it here—pay your money. Then you step across the hall, over there, to Capt. Henry Bailey, who will give you your money's worth, although he's a Democrat. What kind of a license did you want?"

"I jes wants a mahhage license, sah."

"Well, we're just out of them, anyhow," responded Col. Dorian, who is something of a practical joker. "We had quite a rush last week, and have a car-load on the way now, but they haven't got here yet."

"Yes, sah," said the darkey; "I se in no huhby; it ain't ma first time; it'll be de thud time I dun been mahhied, sah."

"Oh, your third time, is it? Well, you ought to be able to get one at reduced rates. You just go over to the court house and ask County Clerk Graham for a license. I understand his supply hasn't run out, and he will probably make you one for a reasonable amount, say about $2. Don't let him charge you more, though."

"Yes, sah," drawled the darkey. "I'll tell 'im dat, boss, an' obligeer to you. Ef he 'tempts to charge me ovah $2 I'll tell 'im, 'naw, I'll jes' wait ontwel day ma 'brou' dan to de city hall gits a new stock."

Only Makes a Bad Matter Worse.

Perhaps you have never thought of it but the fact must be apparent to every one that constipation is caused by a lack of water in the system, and the cause drastic cathartics like the old fashioned pills only makes a bad matter worse. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are much more mild and gentle in their effect, and when the proper dose is taken their action is so natural that one can hardly realize it is the effect of a medicine. Try a 25 cent bottle of them. For sale by all druggists.

The World's Fair.

When a man meets his ideal he usually finds that he isn't hers.

Many a man would get a divorce if he wasn't afraid that somehow or other he would be inveigled into marrying again.

Every year is leap year, but the men are so foolish that they actually think they do the proposing themselves.

It's queer how many years a girl can be 24 years old.

The best man at the wedding is the minister, if his fee is over $10.

If women were sailors they would trim the sails with jassmenterie, or cliffon at the very least.

VERY questionable reports come from Colorado to the effect that the women voters and women election officers turned the political trick like men.

A MESSAGE of amity and good will from President Roosevelt to President Amador, of Panama, by William H. Taft. Who could import good will better?

EX-GOVERNOR FRANK S. BLACK, of New York, would fill with honor to himself and credit to the nation the Attorney-Generalship in President Roosevelt's cabinet.

A BRONZE statue of Frederick the Great was presented by Emperor William to the United States last Saturday. It was received by President Roosevelt on behalf of the country.

COL. W. J. BRYAN has made his initial move to regain control of what remains of the Democratic party. He has sent out quite a number of personal letters to prominent radical Democrats over the country inviting them to consider with him a plan for the re-organization of the shattered remnants of Democracy.

THE tender of the isthmian canal commissioner by President Roosevelt to Senator Cockrell, who has been Democracy's Senator from Missouri for a quarter of a century when there are thousands of good Republicans qualified for the place, does not indicate that the President is the excessive partisan that Democratic campaign howlers characterized him as being.

RECENT Democratic primaries over the State have been fraught with high-way robbery and the rankest rascality. The man who perpetrates fraud in a local convention or primary, invariably brings odium on himself and a curse on his party. The independent voter is so manifest in recent elections that stolen nominations are practically valueless. The fact that a man is a political scoundrel makes him none the less a scoundrel.

IT is urged by a leading Democrat of Georgia that the electors of all the Southern States cast their vote in the Electoral College for Roosevelt and thus make his election unanimous. He says that everyone concedes the President to be a good man, and a man of right intentions and that for the Democratic electors to cast their ballots for him would show the North that the South is not fighting them and that it is not the purpose of the South to make a mere factional opposition. Such a suggestion will of course meet the approbation of but few Southerners, but is not the distinguished Georgia Democrat about correct? Would it not indicate a submissive and obedient spirit on the part of the Southerner and in a measure reunite a sectional country?

ON to-morrow at one o'clock in the several precincts of the county the Republicans will meet to select delegates to the convention which meets here Monday to nominate candidates for the various county offices. The candidates for County Judge, County Attorney, Superintendent of Schools and Surveyor are without opposition. There is a sharp and spirited rivalry for the other nominations. All the aspirants are excellent gentlemen and it matters not who receives the nominations a splendid ticket is assured. Every Republican should attend his precinct convention and express his preference for the different offices. Every candidate who is defeated, for not all can win, should submit gracefully to the vicissitudes of political fortune. All the aspirants for the various nominations are practically young men with a bright political future before them. The county is safely Republican and will continue to be so if all Republicans will unite in their support of the party's nominees whoever they may be. Those who are not unsuccessful this time will have the best claim to endorsement four years hence.

THANKSGIVING which was observed throughout the country yesterday by devotion and thanks to the Deity for the blessings of the past year and by festivities and merriment has a significance beyond that usually ascribed to it. The custom is reputed to be of great antiquity, having been borrowed, as some declare, from the Moslem law. This, however, is doubtful. Notwithstanding, the Hebrews were accustomed to celebrate a plentiful harvest by public festivals. Some are inclined to the belief that the custom in the United States was imported from Holland, where the "Harvest Home" festival is an annual feature. Be this as it may, the origin of Thanksgiving day in the United States is due to the early settlers of New England. The pioneers being almost destitute of food or raiment had designated a day, which chanced to be Thursday, as a day of fasting and prayer, but on the day previous, ships laden with plenty of provision and supplies arrived and instead of fasting and prayer the day was spent in festivity and prayerful devotion. Throughout the colonial days in the New England States they were of annual occurrence, and during the Revolutionary War, congress repeatedly recommended the setting apart of a day to be devoted exclusively to Thanksgiving and prayer. Prior to the Civil War the Thanksgiving proclamations were issued by the Governors of these several States since that period the President issues the proclamation and designates the day.

Hardinsburg, Ky., Nov. 22.—The Rev. George O. Barnes, the widely-known Kentucky evangelist, is preaching a series of seven sermons at the court house, the first sermon being delivered last Thursday evening. He teaches two creations, two salvations, three hells, one heaven and two roads to heaven.

Scrofula

He denies vigorously that he is a unifier at all but preaches that everybody will finally be saved.

That Rev. Barnes is a scholarly man is very evident and he says many things that anybody can hardly commend, but, to say the least, most of his doctrines can not be denominated orthodox.

It is Rev. Barnes' desire to deliver these seven sermons at the county seat of every county in the state. He has been engaged in his undertaking for three years and this is the nineteenth county in which he has preached. He collects only enough money to pay current expenses. Whatever else may be said of his sermons, they are decidedly entertaining and original.

On the ground that the director who authorized the loan was ignorant of the purpose for which the money was to be applied, an order was made in the Circuit Court at St. Louis directing the return of $75,000, the bond fund placed on deposit by the Suburban Railroad Company to bribe members of the House of Delegates.

Death of S. B. Plummer. Roxey, Ky., Nov. 21, 1914.

Death has again visited our community and took from us our friend and neighbor, S. B. Plummer, who lived about four miles south-east of Horton.

Mr. Samuel B. Plummer was born near Nocreek, Ohio county, December 25, 1839. Died November 13, 1914, age 64.

When twenty-two years old he was married to Miss Nancy M. Leach, and settled on the farm where he lived continuously till his death. He was the father of nine children, who are all living but one.

Cousin Sam, as we called him, was an industrious, prosperous farmer; a good neighbor, a kind father and a good citizen. He was well and favorably known, and will be greatly missed.

We wish to extend our deepest sympathy to his bereaved family. J. I. LEACH.

Slain From Ambush. Morehead, Ky., Nov. 23.--Sebrin Profit, a prominent citizen of this place, was assassinated by unknown parties while hauling water from Trip-let Creek to a sawmill, one mile from here. He was shot with a forty-four caliber Winchester, the ball entering his back just below the right shoulder blade, and coming out below the right nipple.

Profit was evidently expecting trouble, as he had a Winchester rifle, a shotgun and pistol on the wagon with him when killed.

There is great excitement, and County Judge Tussey has wired Lexington for bloodhounds to run down the assassins.

Quick Arrest. J. A. Gullidge, of Verbena, Ala., was twice in the hospital from a severe case of piles causing 24 tumors. After doctors and all remedies failed, Bucklen's Arnica Salve quickly arrested further inflammation and cured him. It conquers aches and kill's pain. 25c at Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro's, Drugist.

"O Lord, our Heavenly Father, high and mighty, King of kings, and Lord of lords, who dost from Thy throne behold all the dwellers on earth, and reignest with power supreme and uncontrolled over all the kingdoms, empires and governments; look down in mercy, we beseech Thee, on these American States, who have fled to Thee from the rod of the oppressor, and thrown themselves on Thy gracious protection, desiring to be henceforth dependent only on Thee; to Thee do they now look up for that countenance and support which Thou alone canst give, take them, therefore, Heavenly Father, under thy nurturing care, give them wisdom in council and valor in the field; defeat the malicious designs of our cruel adversaries, convince them of the uprightnessness of their cause; and if they still persist in their sanguinary purposes, sounding in their hearts, constrain them to drop the weapons of war from their unweary hands in the day of battle. Be thou present, O God of wisdom, and direct the councils of this honorable assembly; enable them to settle things on the best and surest foundation that the scene of blood may be speedily closed, that order, harmony, and peace may we effectually restored; and truth and justice, religion and piety, prevail and flourish amongst the people. Preserve the health of their bodies and the vigor of their minds; shower down on them and the millions they represent, such temporal blessings as Thou seest expedient for them in this world, and crown them with everlasting glory in the world to come. All this we ask in the name and through the merits of Jesus Christ, Thy Son, our Savior, Amen."

Men who work in the field will find great help from rubbing vinegar into the hands immediately after washing, as this acid will kill the alkali in the soap. Vinegar is very healing, and if combined with corn meal, will keep the hands in good shape and prevent chapping.

HOW TO STAY YOUNG.

Will Power a Large Factor in Keeping Away Decreptitude.

[Milwaukee Journal.]

How old are you? The adage says that women are as old as they look and men as old as they feel. That's wrong. A man and woman are as old as they take themselves to be.

Growing old is largely a habit of the mind. "As a man thinketh in his heart so is he." If he begins shortly after middle age to imagine himself growing old he will be old.

To keep oneself from decrepitude is somewhat a matter of will power.
The fates are kind to the man who hangs on to life with both hands. He who lets go will go. Death is slow only to tackle the tenacious.

Ponce de Leon searched in the wrong place for the fountain of youth. It is in oneself. One must keep oneself young inside, so that while "the outer man" periseth the inner man is renewed day by day.

When the human mind ceases to exert itself, when there is no longer an active interest in the affairs of this life, when the human stops reading and thinking and doing, the man, like a blasted tree, begins to die at the top.

You are as old as you think you are. Keep the harness on. Your job is not done.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all of its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment.
Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, there-

The December Smart Set.

The feature of the December Smart Set is undoubtedly the novelette, "Clavering and His Daughter," a story of Washington life, by a new author, Foxcroft Davis, whose meteoric entrance into the field of fiction is likely to be the sensation of the season. Totally unknown, this writer's first manuscript was not only accepted on sight by one of the most conservative publishing houses in America, but two new books were contracted for to form a series of three,
all on the National politics and society centering at Washington. Meanwhile the Smart Set has secured the first work to be published under the name of Foxcroft Davis—a story of a remarkable man and a remarkable woman in the interesting setting of life at the Nation's capital, which no author has yet known so intimately and vitally. The appearance of this story is a event.

Sense and Nonsense.

That every ancient joke of the man who is accused of being indifferent to his wife, to the effect that "You never run after the street car after you have caught it," has been answered by Herbert Kelsey, the actor. The very happy married life of this player and his fellow player and wife, Ellie Shannon, is well known. Mr.
Kelsey says you may "catch the car,"
but he adds "you may fall off."

In this connection Mr. Kelsey also suggests the following unlucky number of methods of winning a wife and keeping a wife. Try it out and see if it fits your case:

1. Be considerate of her in small things. Small things make up a woman's life.
2. Remember always that everywhere in the animal kingdom kind and not sex makes difference in brain.
3. Need her and let her know it.
Women understand best that it is more blessed to give than to receive.
4. Let her feel before, and particularly after marriage that she is more important than your business. You wouldn't care to be supplanted in her thoughts by constant musing over that $3.17 that slipped through her hands yesterday.
5. Before marriage kiss her as though she were your wife—after wards kiss her as though she were your sweetheart.
6. Never abuse her confidence.
Her faith in you is capital, which you will have to invest many times.
7. Compel her respect. Respect is the mother and admiration the father of love.
8. Take an interest in her affairs.
You would be hurt if she took no interest in yours.
9. Devote at least a quarter of the thought to entertaining her during a lifetime that you would devote to entertaining her pretty sister half an hour.
10. Don't "nag." Men nag as much as women, and vaccination, the slow scraping away of the skin, pains more than the quick incision of the surgeon's knife.
11. Remember that she is the better half of yourself, and "to thine own self be true."
12. Be generous, not lavish. When she is your wife she is your partner.

A splendid tonic for the hair, makes the hair grow long and heavy.
Always restores color to gray hair, all the dark, rich color of youth.
Stops falling hair, also. Sold for fifty years. R. P. HALL & CO., NEW YORK.

Never compel her to ask for money.
A woman feels dependence as much as a man would.

13. I have devoted as much attention to the subject of winning the woman you have won as to winning the woman you haven't. It is more important to keep the love of your wife than to create love in the object of your attentions. Eternal vigilance is the price of eternal affection.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourage and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent
that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy.
The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton,
N. Y., on every bottle.

CROP REPORT.

Unprecedented Drought Prevails
Over the Whole of Kentucky.

The drouth prevailing in nearly all parts of the State is almost unprecedented in its severity. From nearly every county there comes the cry that stock water is scarce and stock is being driven for miles for water. In many places the streams, springs and cisterns have given out, causing a water famine for man as well as beast. There is great complaint that nearly all the grass seed sown for meadows have perished for want of moisture. There is also apprehension that a large part of the wheat, rye and winter oat seed will perish from the same cause. The early sown grain came up, all right, but there has not been sufficient moisture in the ground for it to make any progress. The grain sown later remains ungerminated in the ground yet. It remains to be seen what the effect will be if the drought continues much longer.

The corn crop generally in the State is a good one. many counties report a bumper crop, while others, notably in the fourth division of the State, report an exceedingly short crop.

The acreage of wheat was not increased as expected, only a few counties reporting an increase above an average, while quite a number fall much below. The drouth setting in so early that it interfered with preparing the land for wheat accounts for the small acreage sown. The amount of land seeded to rye is a full acreage. The acreage of winter oats is below the average, largely on account of the failure last season.

The tobacco was saved in good condition. Free from frost, worm-out and dirt, it ought to be a very useful crop. While the crop is not a large one anywhere, it is reported to be quite a short one in the first and fourth districts. Live stock are fully up to the standard in numbers and conditions. The apple crop for winter is less than half a crop. All things considered the farmer has many things to be thankful for, and can eat his Thanksgiving Turkey with praise to his God and self-congratulation that it might have been worse.

IN PICKLING VAT

Body of Andrew Cluttenbuck, of Kentucky, was Found.

Cincinnati, Ohio, November 21.—Lee and Albert Cluttenbuck, of Gainesville, Boone county, Ky., to-day recovered the body of their uncle, Andrew Cluttenbuck, seventy-two years old, from the pickling vat in a local medical college. Cluttenbuck died at the City Hospital last Thursday. When he entered the institution he said he was without local residence and gave the name of a niece living in Shackelford, Mo., as his next friend. The niece was notified of his death, but no answer came, and when forty-eight hours had elapsed the body was sent to the potters field. This morning Lee and Albert Cluttenbuck called at the hospital to visit their uncle. They were surprised to learn that he was dead and had been consigned to the potters field, and at once set about to recover the body. With a Covington undertaker they visited the potters field only to learn that the body had been taken away by an agent of the anatomical society. Dr. W. E. Lewis was then called upon. He acknowledged that the body had been claimed for the purpose of dissection and stated that it had already been turned over to a local college. After hearing the story of the two men he called up the sexton of the college and told him to preserve the body in tact until tomorrow, when it will be turned over to the Cluttenbucks for burial at Cluttenbuck's late home in Gainesville.
